Praying for Faith

In one of his famous sermons, Saint Augustine of Hippo points out the critical relationship between faith and prayer. It is the gift of faith, Augustine says, that gives rise to prayer. In turn, prayer obtains an increase in faith. Just as faith is strengthened by prayer, temptation can grow stronger as faith weakens.

For those of us who might ask for signs and wonders as a reason for our faith, we might recall the words of St. Augustine, who invites us to see our desire for faith as the very assurance of his presence. Rather than sitting back and waiting for something miraculous to happen—as if God has not already acted—we are invited to act.

In today's gospel, Jesus assures the disciples that the presence of faith—regardless of quantity—is enough to do incredible things. Allowing faith to blossom into a response of gratitude and service to Christ will result in its growth. One such response that is recommended by Saint Augustine is the act of reading the gospels. Meditating daily on life and words of Jesus nourishes our prayer and increases our trust in God. We might simply reflect on the gospel reading for the day or even the gospel passage for the upcoming Sunday Eucharist.

Thomas Merton, in his book New Seeds of Contemplation, reminds the reader that faith is not an emotion, a feeling, or an opinion, nor is it some “sense” that everything is all right. Faith is “a communion with God’s own light and truth.” It does not completely satisfy our intellects but allows them “to be content to know God by loving him and accepting his statements about himself on his own terms.” Faith “terminates not in a statement, not in a formula of words, but in God.”

With the disciples, we give voice to our prayer: Lord, increase our faith.

October-Month of the Rosary Join in praying the Rosary!

Everyone is invited to join the Altar Society every Saturday morning in October and the first Saturday of each month at 8am for a bilingual rosary.
All are welcome!

“Prayer, my daughter, prayer; how many mouths still remain closed, without saying at least a prayer that draws them nearer to the Lord. The Holy Rosary is the weapon to which the enemy fears the most; it is also the refuge of those who look for lightening their grief and it is the door to enter to My Heart. Glory to the Lord for the Light that He gives to the world.” —Our Lady of the Rosary

Orando por la Fe

En uno de sus famosos sermones, San Agustín de Hipona señala la crucial relación entre la fe y la oración. Es el don de la fe, dice Agustín, lo que da origen a la oración. A su vez, la oración produce un aumento en la fe. Así como la fe se fortalece con la oración, la tentación puede intensificarse a medida que la fe se debilita.

Para quienes pedimos señales y prodigios como razón de nuestra fe, podemos recordar las palabras de San Agustín, quien nos invita a ver nuestro deseo de fe como la garantía misma de su presencia. En lugar de quedarnos sentados esperando que suceda algo milagroso, como si Dios no hubiera actuado ya, estamos invitados a actuar.

En el evangelio de hoy, Jesús asegura a sus discípulos que la presencia de la fe, independientemente de la cantidad, es suficiente para lograr cosas increíbles. Permitir que la fe florezca en una respuesta de gratitud y servicio a Cristo resultará en su crecimiento. Una de estas respuestas, recomendada por San Agustín, es la lectura de los evangelios. Meditar diariamente sobre la vida y las palabras de Jesús nutre nuestra oración y aumenta nuestra confianza en Dios. Podríamos simplemente reflexionar sobre la lectura del Evangelio del día o incluso sobre el pasaje del Evangelio para la Eucaristía del domingo.

Thomas Merton, en su libro "Nuevas Semillas de Contemplación", recuerda al lector que la fe no es una emoción, un sentimiento ni una opinión, ni es una sensación de que todo está bien. La fe es "una comunión con la luz y la verdad de Dios". No satisface completamente nuestro intelecto, pero nos permite "conformarnos con conocer a Dios amándolo y aceptando sus afirmaciones sobre sí mismo en sus propios términos". La fe "no termina en una declaración, ni en una fórmula de palabras, sino en Dios".

Con los discípulos, expresamos nuestra oración: Señor, aumenta nuestra fe. —Liturgia Viva

Job change?

Whether retiring or changing jobs, you'll want to know your retirement account options.

There are four potential options for your 401(k) when leaving an employer:

- Leave it in your former employer's 401(k) plan, if allowed by the plan.
- Move it to your new employer's 401(k) plan, if you've changed employers and your new employer plan allows for it.
- Roll the account over to an individual retirement account (IRA).
- Cash it out, which is subject to potential tax consequences.

We can talk through your financial goals and find the option that works best for you.
